Combating Covid-19
A national SciLifeLab initiative funded by the Knut and Alice Wallenberg Foundation

SciLifeLab is organizing a webinar on October 23 to highlight the exciting ongoing research and unique national team science approach in the SciLifeLab-KAW research program on Covid-19, aimed at exploring the major challenge that SARS-CoV-2 opposes to our society.

Just six months since KAW and SciLifeLab initiated the program, the very fast action and concerted efforts by the Swedish research community have generated several key findings, promoted by a collaborative, open science and data sharing strategy. Some of these efforts and achievements will be highlighted at the webinar.